Several organizations have been established in recent years by Korean residents in the US who oppose the policies of President PARK Chung-hee of the Republic of Korea (ROK). The Mentong, also known as Committee for Unification and Democracy in Korea, is one organization that claims the most influence in the US. Their goals, though not clearly defined, are undoubtedly anti-PARK and at times their members appear to be supporters of the North Korean regime. The latter political persuasion has been adopted by some of those members, however, the entire membership agrees in their fervant opposition to PARK.

During the first national convention of the Mentong in the Summer of 1976 at Toronto, Ontario, Canada, [redacted] was elected as [redacted] is a graduate of the [redacted] in Seoul, Korea. He presently resides in [redacted] where he is employed at a [redacted]. He also is a [redacted] in [redacted]. Although he also studied for a time in [redacted] he has received no formal training for the [redacted].
